RIVER TWEED.

AT a General Meeting of the Association for procuring a more exact observance of the acts of Parliament for regulating and improving the Fisheries in the river Tweed, and the rivers and streams running into the same, held at Cornhill, in the county of Durham, on the 18th day of October instant, the following RESOLUTIONS were come to, and ordered to be published:

1st, That the acts of Parliament for regulating and improving the fisheries in the river Tweed, and the rivers and streams running into the same, passed in the years 1771 and 1775, were enacted for the best purposes, and contain clauses and regulations highly beneficial to every person concerned in the said river.

2d, That the execution of these acts of Parliament has, to the great loss of the proprietors in the said river, been almost shamefully neglected.

3d, That an exact observance of them would prove beneficial to the proprietors and the public, by increasing the number of salmon in the Tweed.

4th, That, till within these two years, the complaints relative to the fishing in certain hours prohibited by the acts, for the benefit of the fisheries in the upper part of the river, have been equally well founded with the complaints relative to the fishing in close time.

5th, That it is the opinion of this meeting, that a committee named at the first general meeting, held at Cornhill on the 27th day of December 1781, for enforcing a more regular execution of the acts, have, at a considerable expence, for these two years past, prevented the fishing from ten o'clock on Saturday night till two o'clock on Monday morning.

6th, That the destroying of salmon from the 20th of October till the 10th of January, and the destroying of salmon fry in the months of April and May, have already materially injured, and may in time prove the utter ruin of the fisheries in the Tweed.

7th, That the infringement of the statutes, by taking salmon in close time, is the more unpardonable, and ought to be the more strictly guarded against, as the fish taken in that season are not only of little value, but a most unwholesome food.

8th, That the salmon taken in the Tweed since the year 1776 are greatly short of the usual number, owing probably, at least in part, to the above transgressions of the statutes.

9th, That the proprietors present at this meeting shall, during the next ensuing close time, give orders to their tenants to lay up their boats and take home their nets, in which measure the meeting hope the absent proprietors will concur.

10th, That it be recommended to the proprietors of fisheries in the river Tweed to dismiss from their service any fisherman who shall be convicted of infringing any part of the statutes.

11th, That the proprietors in the upper part of the Tweed, Teviot, Leader, Ettrick, and Till, be wrote to in the name of this meeting, desiring their assistance in the prosecution of enforcing the fishery laws.

12th, That the thanks of this meeting be given to the respective Sheriffs of Berwickshire, Roxburghshire, Selkirkshire, and Peebles, for the diligent and active part they have taken in putting in force the acts; and this meeting do request their perseverance in the steps they have already taken.

Lastly, That these resolutions be printed in the Edinburgh, Newcastle, and Kello newspapers, for the public information; and as an inducement to Magistrates to concur heartily with the Association, in their exertions for enforcing the acts of Parliament in question, on the spirited execution of which depends the preservation of a valuable property, and from which it is hoped the country may in the end derive great advantage.

BEAUME DE VIE.

The most approved Remedy for AUTUMNAL COMPLAINTS.

THIS celebrated and long-established Medicine is confessedly the greatest preservative in the whole Materia Medica. By its cordial, attenuating, and detergent powers, it fortifies the stomach and bowels, purifies the blood and juices, and gives to the whole system its natural equilibrium. To these qualities we attribute its having proved so eminently serviceable in Gouty, Rheumatic, and Scorbutic habits. From the same principle, it has never failed to relieve in Languid, Nervous, and Hypochondriac cases; and hence it has been found so particularly beneficial in female disorders.

The public are requested to take notice, that the BEAUME DE VIE is now sold by Mess. Dicoy and Co. Row Church-yard, with the hand writing of T. Dantzick, Sept. 26. The differences between this city and the King of Prussia are at last finally adjusted, through the mediation of the Imperial Court of Russia. Here follow the articles of the Convention, concluded on the 7th inst. at Warsaw, and by which the trade of this city will be restored to its former stability.

CONVENTION,

Between his Majesty the King of Prussia and the City of Dantzick.

WHEREAS, for some time past, disagreeable misunderstandings have prevailed between his Prussian Majesty and the city of Dantzick, in consequence whereof several amicable conferences have been held through the mediation of her Imperial Majesty of all the Russian, the following conciliatory agreement has been entered into.

ART. I. The Magistrates of Dantzick readily acknowledge that, on the part of the said city, owing either to misapprehension, ill-humour, or prejudice, matters have been carried to such unwarrantable lengths against his Prussian Majesty and his subjects, that several of the latter have been grievously insulted by some of the inhabitants of Dantzick. For this offence the said Magistrate shall, in the name of the whole city, beg his Majesty's pardon, promising to behave in the future towards his Majesty and all his subjects, as never to give any cause of complaint.

II. As the principal cause of the differences alluded to originated from this question, Whether the King's subjects may freely trade and navigate within the dominions of the city of Dantzick? it is hereby declared, that, whereas the King of Prussia doth grant to the said inhabitants a free passage, the latter in their turn agree to allow the same liberty, both by land and water, within their dominions, to the Prussian traders, subject to pay tolls at the same rate as is done by the said inhabitants, and no more. It is also agreed on the part of the Prussian inhabitants, that all communication and passages shall be restored, especially the Krug, they being at liberty, however, to prevent the said Prussian traders from going too near the fortifications of the city, by extending the road in its environs, or erecting turnpikes, that shall remain shut up from sun-set to sun-rising.

III. His Prussian Majesty, by this article, covenants to grant to the said city the exclusive privilege of trading by sea with Poland, strictly forbidding his subjects to interfere in the said trade. For this purpose, the inhabitants of Dantzick are empowered to appoint an agent or consul, to reside at the new Fahr-waesen, to see that no Prussian ship is employed in that trade. However, his power will not go so far as arbitrarily to search such ships, but upon the least form he make his report, and if well founded, the Magistrates of Dantzick shall be authorized to demand satisfaction for any breach of the present article. In consequence of the concessions herein contained, the city of Dantzick agrees to give every kind of liberty to the Prussian subjects, for a free access and regress in and out of their dominions by land and water.

IV. Settles the payment of tolls, which at no time must exceed those settled in Prussia, and that no ship trading under a passport shall be searched, unless the Magistrate should have some very good cause to suspect that such passports are not declaratory of the real bill of lading; then such ships, &c. shall be liable to a search, but always in the presence of the Prussian Resident, who shall be summoned to attend in such case.

V. Restores, that the Magistrate of Dantzick shall grant a free passage to all effects and goods belonging to his Majesty in person, or for the use of his troops, without exacting any duties for the same.

VI. It is hereby provided, that a former convention made between the parties in 1771, shall be observed in all its parts. This the Magistrate shall engage, in the name of his constituents, to see performed, without obstacle or equivocation.

VII. His Prussian Majesty, on the other hand, to show his affection towards the inhabitants of Dantzick, hereby engages to deliver up all such persons now within his territories, as have withdrawn from the jurisdiction of Dantzick. And as a further mark of his Royal protection, his Majesty will, from the date of the present convention, recall for ever the recruiting parties, casually employed in the said city.

VIII. The Prussian Jews shall be on the same footing with their German brethren; provided, nevertheless, they carefully avoid carrying on any trade prohibited by the police laws of Dantzick.

IX. Upon the Magistrate having, in the name of the whole city, engaged to fulfil every one of the foregoing articles, bona fide, his Prussian Majesty is graciously pleased to forget and forgive all that has passed, to honour the city and its trade with his Royal protection, and strictly forbid his subjects to embarrass the same by any obstacle, hindrance, or molestation whatever.

X. It is agreed, that for the better cementing the good intelligence now restored between the King and the City of Dantzick, any stipulation or resolve made by the respective Plenipotentiaries to the present Convention shall be acceded to by both parties, as their own act and deed.

The present Convention was signed and sealed by the respective Commissioners, invested with plenary powers, &c. Done at Warsaw on the 7th day of September 1784.

The full ratification has been put off, ad interim, till the powers of the Deputies of Dantzick have been formally approved by his Prussian Majesty.

L O N D O N.

This morning, some dispatches were received from St. Augustine, brought over in the Elisabeth, Captain Walcor, which is arrived at Falmouth. They mention, that a hurricane had happened there the 1st of August, which drove several ships from their moorings, but very little damage was done.

Private letters from Vienna, dated Sept. 23, say, that in consequence of some very spirited remonstrances from Count d'Obdam, the Dutch Minister Plenipotentiary to the Emperor, he had been told his attendance at Court would be dispensed with, and that the public business would hereafter be done with the Sieur Duker his Secretary.

Accounts from Amsterdam by the last mail mention, that Baron Reede, the Minister from the States-General to the King of Prussia, had requested letters of recall from their High Mightinesses, in consequence of his disagreeable situation at the Court of Berlin.

The mortifications and neglect the Ministers of the States-General meet with in most European Courts, is a striking proof that the power of that Republic, from their civil commotions at home and the late measures taken against them by two powerful Monarchs abroad, is declining with uncommon rapidity.

The States of Holland and West Friesland have agreed to furnish their quota of the sum of 467,000 florins necessary to put the troops in a condition to march, and have authorized the Council Committee to make the payment.

The Stadtholder has written a letter to the States of Utrecht, dated Sept. 20. in answer to theirs of the 1st of the same month, on the subject of the report of their Commissaries, and appointed February 20. to examine into and give their advice concerning the means proper for the removal of the grievances complained of by the inhabitants, and for the re-establishment of peace and good harmony among them.

In this letter he complains loudly, that the Committee, instead of entering into the consideration of the object before them at large, had confined themselves solely to the murmurs raised against the regulation of the regency made in 1674, and to the proposing a plan of reform. This he declares he can by no means consent to, and trusts the States will let the report remain prostat jacet, "especially (says he) as we can with confidence tender to ourselves that testimony which has been confirmed even by the Commissaries of your Noble Mightinesses, that we never have abused the power entrusted to us by the above mentioned regulation; and therefore we justly demand, that this fundamental law, which your Noble Mightinesses, as well as ourselves, have solemnly sworn to maintain, may for the future make the rule of our mutual conduct."

On Thursday last, died at his house in Bermondsey, in Surrey, Richard Russell, Esq. in the commission of the peace for that county. He died a bachelor, and has left, among other legacies, Three thousand pounds to the Magdalen Hospital. Three thousand pounds to the Small-pox Hospital. Three thousand pounds to the Lying-in Hospital near Westminster Bridge. Five hundred pounds to the Surrey Dispensary. Two thousand pounds for a monument to be erected in St. John's Church, Southwark. Fifty pounds each to six young women to attend as pall-bearers on the night of his interment. Twenty pounds each to four other young women, who are to precede his corpse, and strew flowers, whilst the Dead March in Saul is to be played by the organist of St. John's. One hundred pounds to the Rev. Mr. Grose to write his epitaph. This sum had been first left to Dr. Samuel Johnson, but altered by a codicil in favour of the Rev. Mr. Grose. All the rest of his property, after sale of his estates, to the Asylum for young girls in Lambeth parish, which it is supposed will amount to 15 or 16,000 l. after all the legacies and funeral charges are defrayed. Eight of the acting magistrates in Surrey are requested in his will to attend his funeral; and his executors are Sir Joseph Mawbey, Bart. Samuel Gillam, Thomas Bell, and William Lewis, Esqrs.

Extract of a letter from Petersburg, Aug. 31.

"The Empress, our Sovereign, who went to Czarko Zelo, the 12th current, for the air, has since her arrival had a return of the disorder with which she was so formidably attacked here; the Duke and Duchess continue constantly in her apartments. Four physicians attend her Imperial Majesty, one of whom, Dr. Ball, an Englishman, has made himself famous by his skill and address."

Extract of a letter from Ostend, Sept. 28.

"The Heideboersgen East India ship, of 26 guns, which had unloaded great part of her cargo here, failed the 23d for Antwerp, since which we have heard nothing of her; so that we reckon the Dutch, with all their bluster, have not thought it convenient to stop her passage at the mouth of the Scheldt, as had been expected; though it is probable she will meet other obstructions, so as to occasion her return here, or at least to Sluice."

"The Prince of Liege is daily expected here to review the Austrian forces in this neighbourhood, and in particular, the recruits that have been raised for filling up vacancies in the regiments in Flanders, which amount to upwards of 3000 men; after which they will be immediately incorporated."

ETERNAL TORMENTS.

Many years ago, a wit wrote a book, called The Art of Tormenting. But in those days, the art had come to no great perfection.

In our times it is reduced to a science. Talk of the torments inflicted by the Heathen Emperors, upon the Christians. Talk of the cruelties of Queen Mary's days—of the Dutch at Amboyna—of the Irish massacre—and the American modes of tarring and feathering, scalping, burning, broiling, and bruising.

But what are all these but flea bites—indeed they are tender mercies when compared to the torments which my friend Grumble inflicts on all the world, that is, on all who have the misfortune to be acquainted or connected with him.

When he arises in the morning, he finds his morning-gown folded obliquely instead of transversely, and parallel to the back or bottom of the chair—rings his bell—curses his servant for an inattentive fellow.—His servant tells him that he (the master) placed the gown so the preceding night;—"Get about your business, you rascal you."

At breakfast—the tea is weak—then it is strong—the toast has too little, then too much butter—the milk is half water, then it is d—n—d extravagant to use cream—the rolls are burnt to a cinder—then they are perfect dough.

His news-paper is brought in—"Drury Lane, this evening"—Confound the plays, they are not worth seeing.—"We hear from Windsor,"—A lie, by Jupiter.—"Yesterday Mr Pitt set off for"—Who the devil cares whether?—"To-morrow Mr Fox gives a dinner"—Burst their guts, I say.—"His M—ty has been pleased"—Hum, hum, te. hum tha!—"The benefit of Mrs Linton turned out well"—Stuff, nonsense, plaguing us with such stuff.

"Theatrical Intelligence"—D—n your intelligencel

After he has perused the whole paper to the same tane, he declares that there is nothing now to be found in papers worth reading, since the session of parliament ended.

During parliament, the burthen of his song was, "It is devilish hard to be bored every day with half a dozen columns of debate."

He rides out upon a party.—"You ride a charming horse, Mr Grumble."

Charming! ay!—no, she is wind broken, I think. Impossible! she is as found as—

Sound!—but she is apt to start—and comes down on her knees.

Now reader—down on the knees is a posture Mr Grumble's very seldom found in.

At dinner, every thing is uncomfortable—the cook has played the devil, or, according to the proverb, the devil finds out. If the fish are well dressed, the sauce is abominable, and the soup, although very relishing, is made up of bones, oysters, candle-grease, and dish-water. The Port wine is abominable, the Sherry infamous, and the punch beyond all possibility of reformation. The day, if fine, is sultry; if the roads are dirty, and, although the sun shine, it is very cloudy.

Mention politics. Mr Pitt's character rises above detraction.

Pooh; I would not give a f— for his character. Mr Fox is a man of the greatest depth of judgment.

Judgment—a parcel of cant; you don't know what judgment is.

The American war was upon just grounds. Heaven! it was the most infamous, damnable, detestable—

But the peace came very opportune to put an end to it. Peace! a pretty peace indeed: I fancy, had Mr Fox been in administration, the peace might have been a better one.

O yes, to be sure! that is a likely story—"or 'er a barrel the better herring."

His India bill was a bold and grand object. Pooh! nonsense, what signifies his bill?

Mr Pitt's bill was a proof of his sense and understanding. Very likely, indeed—stuff, balderdash.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, Oct. 5.

"In London, during the recess of Parliament, there are always great complaints of the deadness of the town, the stagnation of business, &c. &c. However, it is universally agreed, that the town has not, for many years backward, been so full of company as it is in the present month. The long confinement in London, by the prolonged session of Parliament, appears to have occasioned a proportionable desire to evacuate it as water, long pent up, breaks out with violence, and rushes in great quantities, and with great rapidity."

"But, seriously, in this matter we may observe, perhaps, change or progress in the manners and sentiments of men. It is more fashionable than it has ever been for people of all ranks and orders to spend some months in the country in the summer. Not to do this would be accounted vulgar. Game butchers have absolutely their country houses! Tailors, and manner of shopkeepers, resort to Brighton, Margate, &c. whence they make parties to take a trip to Calais, Dunkirk, Boulogne. This they call seeing the Continent. They heliographically (if that is not done) before they quit the town which is stored with victuals as if bound to America—curd, Mounseers—and in a day or two return, for the benefit of health to the watering-places. A publican, that is, one sells gin, compounds, and porter in a dirty ale-house, me, that he had been with a party from Margate to Dun Well! Bond (the man's name) what do you think of the Continent of Europe? By G—d, said Bond, very honestly never saw it. I was carried asleep on shore, and I happened to be half awake, when, at the dawn of day, I staggered the yacht again."

"The great importance, in the eyes of physicians, of bathing, and of a change of air to health and longevity, is doubt, the principal cause of the great resort to watering-places. You will say, that since the day of Dr Cheyne, and other great physicians, the cause of the rage I allude to must be consequently, the cause of the rage I allude to must be fought for in other circumstances. It is very true! What shall we say? That the folks of the present generation are so attentive to health than formerly? or, that they have greater need of assistance?"

"Still report upon report of the failure of the Americans. Many plausible letters, but no drafts! They positively consume unbounded quantities of goods; which they sell a fourth part under the price for which they bought them. At third sight, appears a losing trade: But the mysteries of commerce are harder to be solved than theorems in philosophy. It is a very gainful trade: For the Americans keep the whole money to themselves, and make no manner of return, but demands for goods, with fair promises. John Bull begins to swear, that they are nothing but a pack of swindlers."

"I was this evening with a French Canadian, just from Montreal. Plentiful crops this last season; and numbers of Americans, with considerable capitals, resorting, for the purpose of regular government and exemption from taxes, to the sessions that yet remain to Great Britain in the western world."

"A parliamentary reform will be amongst the first objects which will attract the attention of the members of the House of Commons."

"This evening, Mrs Siddons made her first appearance for the season. Owing to the calumny and detraction propagated concerning her behaviour to Digges and Brereton, which is tally void of foundation, she received at the commencement of the play very considerable opposition, which made such a strong impression on her mind, that she fainted. The tumult still continued; but, after an address to the audience, begging them to suspend their opinions for a few days, when the matter would be fully cleared up to the satisfaction of the candid part of the Public, she was suffered to proceed, when the astonished every auditor with her admirable performance of Mrs Beverley in the Gameller; and is, we hope, re-established in the good graces of the town."

Tuesday last, at a meeting of gentlemen, merchants, traders, and others, in the city of York, and suburbs, it was resolved, as expedient and proper, to apply to the Postmasters General for a mail-coach, or diligence, to convey the mail from London northward, and to recommend the same to pass through that city.

Mr Dempster, on Monday last, at the earnest solicitation of the merchants and manufacturers of Paisley, dined with that respectable body, at the Abercorn's Arms tavern, in that town.

Wednesday, an elegant entertainment was given, at the Tontide Tavern, Glasgow, to the Lord Advocate and Mr Dempster, by a numerous meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and Manufactures in that city, and the other towns in its vicinity, when the thanks of the meeting were given to these gentlemen for their spirited exertions in Parliament in behalf of the manufactures of this country.

At the same time, the incorporation of Weavers presented both these gentlemen with the freedom of their incorporation, and a deputation of the journeymen-weavers waited on them with the thanks of their constituents, for their exertions in their behalf.

Many toasts, suitable to the occasion of the meetings, and in behalf of the manufactures of this country, were given; and the evening concluded with the greatest regularity and decorum.

On Friday, the Lord Advocate and Mr Dempster, accompanied by Mr Baird the engineer, surveyed the tract of the ground which the Canal is to pass, to its junction with the River at Dalmeir Burn-foot.

Tuesday last, the following Gentlemen were elected Members of Glasgow for the year ensuing, viz.

JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq; of Clathie, Lord Provost.
Alexander Low, Merchant Bailie.
John Laurie, Merchant Bailie.
James Muirhead, Trades Bailie.

On Friday last, three boys, who pretended to be eluding chapmen, entered, by a window, into the house of Archibald Menzies at Claddock, parish of Cardross, broke open a chest, and stole from thence eleven shillings in silver. On information that they had crossed the ferry at the Row, they were pursued next day, and apprehended at a farm house, where they were offering to buy a horse. Archibald Menzies, meaning to carry them before a Justice of the Peace, they resisted they had stole his money, and returned it. Upon hearing them a watch was found, which there is great reason to suspect has been stolen.

The following article is taken from the Virginia Gazette of July 24.

Philadelphia, July 10. Sunday last, the 4th of July, being Anniversary of our INDEPENDENCE, thirteen changes were rung on the bells of Christ Church. In commemoration of the great and glorious event, a company of select citizens, and members of the Cincinnati, who were in town, assembled, on two subsequent days, at the City Tavern, where the occasion was celebrated with that joy and festivity the ever memorable idea of independence must have created and inspired. It was very extraordinary, says a correspondent, that this illustrious event did not strike the notice of our public bodies—at least in a distinguished manner it has hitherto done in uniform periods within the memory of us all. O! Independence! whither hast thou fled! Into what happier region hast thou retreated! Or rather, more pointedly, have the guardians and directors of our country forsaken thee? And must our freeborn spirits be once more subjugated with the dreadful apprehensions of more than British servitude and slavery?

"The Circuit Court of Justiciary was opened here yesterday by the Right Hon. Lord Gardenston. There was no criminal business to come before the Court. To-morrow is the last day of the year at this place, which ends the southern Circuit."

Extract of a letter from Dublin, Sept. 28.
"Yesterday a prodigious concourse of people assembled at the Theatre, in expectation of the appointment of delegates for Congress; but the Sheriffs having declining presiding at the meeting, after having procured the opinion of counsel that the meeting was illegal, the business, of course, was laid aside."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Paris to his friend in Edinburgh, Sept. 26.

"The weather has been almost intolerably hot here for these three weeks past. The thermometer is now from 68 to 75 in the shade. Last Sunday about 12 noon, the two brothers Robert, and brother-in-law, ascended from the Thuilleries, with a globe aerostatique, the same with that of the Date de Chateaux, amidst an incredible concourse of spectators. It was seen at four o'clock P. M. at 20 leagues from Paris, but has not since been heard of."

Extract of a letter from Nairn, Sept. 27.

"A more palpable instance of the abuses committed in the borough elections in this part of the Kingdom cannot be figured, than what this day's election of Magistrates and Councilors has afforded. By a judgment of the Court of Session, the officers, and a certain number of Councilors were ordained to be resident. In seeming compliance with that judgment, two of the country Councilors of last year took up a temporary residence within the royalty two nights before the election, and we are to return to their wives and families two days after. The Treasurer is one of those ambulatory inhabitants who took up residence pro loco et tempore. The Dean of Guild was not present at the election, although in the near neighbourhood, having been some time before incarcerated in the county jail, and was just over the council house. Notwithstanding of this, he was in his absence re-elected into office. The eldest Bailie would have stood in the same predicament, but for the well-timed interposition of a late colleague, who, unfortunately for the Bailie, was a messenger at arms, and softened the rigorous brother catchpole. By this means freedom was restored to the Bailie, though not to the borough.

We hear this election is to be made the subject of a complaint to the Court of Session."

These lands are pleasantly situated upon the river of Doon, within eight miles of the town of Ayr, six of Maybole, and two of Dalmellington. They contain betwixt 800 and 900 acres Scots measure, great part of which is arable and excellent meadow land, mostly all inclosed and subdivided. They admit of great improvement, and abound with materials, as they contain inexhaustible mines of coal, and quarries of limestone, which can be wrought at an easy rate. There is a good mansion house upon the lands, and some timber and planting.

The lands are held blench of the Crown, and entitle the proprietor to vote for a member of Parliament for the county.

The lands of Chang and Cairn are of considerable extent. They have never been measured, but are supposed to contain at least 2000 acres; the greatest part of them is best adapted to pasture, particularly for sheep, but the arable land is also considerable.

There is the greatest reason to believe that these lands contain very valuable mines of lead, steel, having been made, and some ore turned out.

These lands are also held blench of the Crown, and entitle the proprietor to vote for a member of Parliament for the county.

The teinds of the whole above-mentioned lands of Keirs, Chang, and Cairn, are valued, and are possessed under tack from the Dean of the Chapel Royal, for nineteen years after Martinmas 1780, for payment of 1 s. 8 d. Sterling of tack duty.

Lot III. SURPLUS RENTS payable out of lands in Galloway, let in tack by the Earl of Galloway to Mr M'Harg, and sublet by him; the principal tack whereof is still current for three years after Whit Sunday 1785. TO BE SOLD BY PRIVATE BARGAIN.

THE Lands of WESTER FOULIS, lying in the parish of Wester Foulis, and Shire of Perth.

These Lands consist in whole of about 1080 acres, of which 100 fine arable haugh or pow land, 420 infield, 410 outfield, mostly strong good soil, and the remaining 300 more and pasture, whereof two-thirds are very improvable; and besides they have right to a share of an extensive neighbouring Common, not yet divided. They lie on the great road between Perth and Crieff, about ten miles from the former, and seven from the latter, and are pleasantly situated on a sloping bank, fronting fourth, and commanding an extensive and rich prospect of Strathgairn.

The present rent in money, and converted poultry and fowls, is 290 l. 10 s. Sterling, and 257 holls of meal and bear, which, valued at 8 s. 6 d. Scotch pence, being the usual conversion in that part of the country, make the total rent 462 l. 3 s. 4 d. Sterling; and besides the tenants, who are current leases, are bound to pay 7 one-half per cent. on the expense laid out in including their lands. As all these lands are under the old system of husbandry, and little of them inclosed, though the estate abounds with fowls, they are a most desirable purchase to any gentleman, who can lay out a little money in inclosing and improving them, which he may have an immediate opportunity of doing in part, as several of the farms are already out of lease.

The lands will be shown by John Miller the ground officer; and any person inclining to purchase them, may commune with or give in proposals to Sir William Murray of Ochtertyre, Bart. the proprietor, or to Alexander Duncan writer to the signet, at Edinburgh.

N. B. If the lands are not sold by the first of January next, new leases will be granted of those farms of which the leases are expired.
